

“Hollow Flower” by JuanCarlos rLora

“Hollow Flower” is the sub-series of the “Flower of the Sun” (Flor del Sol) that touches on the very moment where the life cycle is on its last breath, where the seed of the flower goes off to the surface of the sun, hence the hollow circle. The flower then begins to disintegrate into and becomes the Particles...One can only think of a purpose not yet met, where the Flower still wasn't able to bring humanity to the understanding of that special love for all, yet the hope is never lost, as it becomes reborn over and over, until its purpose is fully met and humanity becomes a benevolent being.

Summer Sky

Acrylic, oil and tempera on canvas

55 × 40 in

$13,000

The interconnection of acrylic with oil and tempera give Summer Sky a sense of ethereal flow, with the flower glowing at its center. The streaks technique is observed very clearly here, giving this painting almost a 3D-like, glowing appearance.

Hollow

Acrylic and oil on canvas

30 x 24 in

$12,000

Contemplating the profound significance of a purpose unfulfilled - the Flower's longing to impart humanity with an unparalleled love for all. Despite this unmet aspiration, hope shines eternally as the Flower continuously rejuvenates itself, persisting until its ultimate purpose is fulfilled, with its cyclical rebirths, each iteration drawing humanity closer to embodying a benevolent essence, until the destined harmony prevails.

Hollow II
Acrylic and oil on canvas
20 × 16 in
$6,000

Hollow II has a strong emotional pull, with the flower being in the center of the stage with a white outline of the hollow flower within. Its vivid, bold and dark tones transport the viewer into the land of otherworldly and imaginary. The combination of colors is particularly striking as one examines the piece in detail. Its deep, rich and saturated background gives way to a silhouette of a flower, which is made by an almost stitch-like streaks technique.
