“Audrey’s Journey” by JuanCarlos rLora

“Audrey’s Journey” is JuanCarlos’ new parallel narrative. This story won't have the traditional tale write up JuanCarlos has accustomed us to, it will rather be a question for us to ask ourselves:

"What if God were a little girl from a different dimension, how would the journey of her creation of all that exists be?"

This series thus far leans more towards a philosophical, scientific and theoretical framework, asking questions of the origins of the universe and existence, all while taking us on a journey of the imagination through the eyes of a child.

The idea of Audrey began back in 2003, when JuanCarlos first developed this concept. In this series, JuanCarlos purposely explores flatness of paint with naïve nuances, with a transparent silhouette of his main character, having the viewer experience these works from a child's perspective. There are limitless possibilities to a child's imagination, so we invite you to enjoy its whimsical nature!
