“Hollow Flower” by JuanCarlos rLora

“Hollow Flower” is the sub-series of the “Sunflower” (Flor del Sol) that touches on the very moment where the flower’s life cycle is on its last breath, as the seed of the flower goes off to the surface of the sun, hence the hollow circle. The flower then begins to disintegrate into and becomes the Particles, which is another sub-series...One can only think of a purpose not yet met, where the Flower still wasn't able to bring humanity to the understanding of that special love for all, yet the hope is never lost, as it becomes reborn over and over, until its purpose is fully met and humanity becomes a benevolent being.

Fun Fact: JuanCarlos' art serves a greater purpose—through the proceeds from his art sales, he actively supports an animal rescue mission known as ArtToSaveLives, a cause he has been passionately involved in since 2006.
